Programme for Today's Sport at Bay District-Colorado People Celebrating a Decision in a Mining Suit-

Sy Tsteproph to the Times.

San Francisco, Nov. 27.—[By the Associated Press.] The State Supreme Court this morning rendered a decision in three cases involving the constitutionality of the new county of Orange.

The Court held that the act for the organization of the new county is not in conflict.

zation of the new county is not in conflict with the Constitution.

The main contention of the appellants in the case was that the act creating the county of Orange was a delegation of legislative the case was that the actoreating the county of Orange was a delegation of legislative authority, and therefore void; furthermore, that if the act in question did not delegate to the people power to repeal it, because it provided in the event that less than two-thirds of the voters voted for a division of the proposed county then the act should cease to be of any force and effect, and for that reason the whole act was void.

The Court held that the construction given by appellants to that portion of the act was erroneous, but even if such portion was stricken out the remainder of the act would not be affected thereby.

On the point that the act was in violation of the provision of the Constitution that "corporations for municipal purposes" shall not be created by special laws, the Court holds that a county is not such a corporation, and it further holds that the point that the act was void because it was a local of special law not well taken.

The opinion concludes: "All that we meed say here is that the voice of the people was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that the act was not an act of legislation, and that was a local of the constitution. The cases are accordingly dismissed."

Justice Fox delivered the opinion, which was concurred in by the Chief Justice and other justices.

Complaint was made at the police station last eyening that there was a child in the southwestern part of the city that seemed to be developing the characteristics of Jesse Pomeroy, the boy fiend, about whose atrocities so much was published several years ago. The child is said to be but 5 years old, but is so vicious that it is dangerous to allow children to play with him. He is said to have seriously injured one of his playmates a short time ago, and a few days since struck a little girl over the back with a heavy stick, injuring her badly, and then burned her hand with a red-hot poker. The police promised to investigate the case, and police promised to investigate the case, and if the facts were true, as alleged, to see that the child was kept under proper restraint.

Brother Finds Him Sitting Back of His House. He Was in the Habit of Giving Aconite to His Children for Colds. The

Coroner's Inquest

Jehn L. Carey, the proprietor of the Hill Top dairy, at the terminus of the Temple-street cable, came to his death yesterday afternoon under peculiarly sad circunstances. Mr. Carey generally kept acontie in the house, which he administered to his family for colds, etc., and also used the drug in considerable quantities in doctoring his children. Several days ago he procured a supply of the drug, in an old Jamaica gibrer bottle, and brought it home, setting it in a closet with other bottles. Yesterday morning he felt badly, and intended to take a dose of ginger, but by mistake got hold of the wrong bottle and took a large swallow of the aconite before he discovered his error. As soon as he realized what he had done, he looked up the untidot for the poison, which is, sweet oil, and took a large dose. About 10 o'clock his brother, W. H. Carey, came over and found him sitting out behind his house, trying to yomil. His brother asked him what was the matter, when Carey replied that he had taken an overdose of aconite by mistake for ginger. His brother advised him to send for a doctor, but he refused, saying that he had taken an antidote, and would soon be all right. The brother then returned to his house, about 100 yards distant, and when he returned found his wife and Mrs. Carey administering mustard and hot water. William Cary then came into town to secure medical sid, and Dr. Issae Fellows returned with him. Arriving at the house, Mr. Carey was found to be in a very critical condition, having spasms and vomiting. Dr. Fellows at once applied the usual remedies, and at one time there was some slight improvement, but after the third spasm the unfortunate man died. Between the second and third spasm Carey talked freely with the Doctor about his condition in the presence of his brother, wife and, sister-in-law, but saken with the third and fatal spasm while talk-ing. Dr. Fellows came in and reported the case at the Coroner's office, and Coroner Mercdith went out to the house and held an inquest. Only two witnesses were effects of an overdose of aconite, taken by mistake.

Mr. Carey was in the habit of taking a few drops of aconite for colds, and also gave it to his children, and hence became somewhat careless in taking proper precautions against mistakes. After he realized what had happened. Mr. Carey told his wife to destroy the drug, so as to prevent the children from getting hold of it. It is not known where the drug was procured, but it could not have been properly labeled, or the mistake could not have occurred.

THE Stockton Mail notices the receipt by the Mayor of that city of a letter from a Los Angeles manufacturing firm, inquiring as to the natural supply of that city, and stating that they desire to remove to some more central locality, where they can manufacture cheap. The Mail, in reply, states that there are about 40 factories in Stockton, half of which are large and calls attention to the "Northern" gas well, one of the smaller ones there, which cost $5718, and gives 30,000 feet each 24 hours, from which can be developed, by means of a gas-engine, 300 horse-power for ten hours, at a cost of only 90 cents a has been telling Americans some To develop the same amount of horse-power by coal would cost about $40 a day. THANKSGIVING DAY.

ong the anniversaries recognize and observed by the American people, Thanksgiving Day is peculiarly our own. It is born of the spirit of our institutions, and out of that allpervading tendency to religious reverence and faith which characterized so emphatically the beginning of Amer-

Never, since the days of the service nation—God's chosen people translated from the midst of Egyptian oppression and slavery to the land of Cansan, and planted there and shielded and protected by direct divine interposition-has there been a people so opposing forces, so helped and cared-for and prospered by Providence as the people of the United States.

Coming out from the tyrauny of the Old World, their love of freedom, born of their devotion to the right and nurtured by that desire which was with them the mainspring of action, politically as well as religiously—the de-sire for a country where men might worship God according to the dictates of their own consciences, independent of all priestcraft or the interference of thrones, they set up here their altars and looked to heaven for its benediction and help.

A government thus founded, a religious faith thus planted and nurtured was the sublimest spectacle in the history of human affairs which has been afforded in all these later centuries. The roots of such a nationality strike deep into the spiritual being of its people and tell upon their character. America is today the marvel of all lands—a free, self-governing people, making wonderful industrial strides; marvelous advances in education and science; fearless and bold in its push of empire; welcoming alike the infidel and the Christian to share its greatness and its peace, yet planting everywhere beside its schools and printing presses, its churches, which, though of different name and creed, yet dwell harmoniously together, each working for the truth as it sees the truth.

America is a country whose people, religiously as well as politically, are freer, more independent, better taught and more intelligent than in any other land under the sun. Here there is no conflict between church and state; no enforced support of any church; no denomination that can claim state recognition above any other, but inde-pendence embraces alike the church and the individual.

For this religious freedom, for the large intellectual as well as spiritual strength of our churches, we should render thanksgiving, no less than for our political liberty, which is co-exist-

That first thanksgiving day of the Nation, when we were but a handful upon the shores of this New World; when we were in danger from savage foes; from scarce averted famine; with a howling and uncultivated wilderness rcling the newly-planted towns and villages; with a stormy ocean, ploughed only by slow-sailing ships, because us and the succer which civil-tration hight snow, went a contrast it offers to the Thanksgiving Day which we celebrate in this year of

But the same reverent spirit which ictuated our forefathers, does, we believe, actuate in a large measure the Nation today. The American people are not blind to that Providence which guarded the cradle of their liberties and made them what they are todayfree, peaceful, prosperous and power-

And everywhere throughout the land large freedom from epidemics; of abundant harvests, and of great prosperity. In some sections there have been dire calamities, but these have but served to show the feeling of universal brotherhood which exists throughout the land. Irrespective of section, the hand has been stretched out to help. The kinship of feeling, within the past year in the face of suffering and disaster. In the presence of calamity there has been no North, no South, no East and no West, but one common brotherhood and country.

In our own section we have been free from the visitation of those awful calamities that have desolated other portions of the land. We have been blessed with abundant harvests and general prosperity. Business has been on the increase; a healthful growth has superseded the partial stagnation which for a time was felt after the close of our financial craze; money is more plenty and easie in our midst; a desire for improvement and general progress is manifested; we are planting new industries and succoring old ones; our schools and churches are growing, and all that is promotive of the best interests of a community is ours. We can look hopefully outhern California name might not into the future and feel assured that it has even better things in store for us reverently thankful for all that has been bequeathed us, and all that we ourselves have been enabled to achieve, and recognizing at all times that Providence who orders the affairs of individuals no less than nations, let us observe this Thanksgiving Day with the determination that the liberties and the blessings which are ours shall, through our faith and our fidelity, be bequeathed to our children, so that the day of our national thanksgiving shall be as enduring as this Republic.

SOME THINGS THEY DO BETTER OVER THERE.

An American of prominence and good sense—Prof. Andrew D. White oning interest at 6 per cent. patent, though unpalatable truths, on cover natural gas, especially as docks of all seaport towns are vastly of the people are far in advance of any-hing that we have. Prof. White says Constantinople is the only city in Europe which is as wretchedly paved, as dirty, and as badly sewered and provided with docks as New York. This talk, while somewhat wounding to our amour propre, is true and timely. Americans are too apt to regard hard work as the end of life, instead of as the means to an end. We know how to accumulate money, but are far behind most European peoples in extracting the maximum of comfort and enjoyment from it after we have earned it. Because we have one of the most perfect systems of government on the face of the earth, and a liberty which permits every man to do pretty much as he pleases—in proportion to his means pleases—in proportion to his means—it does not necessarily follow that we should to a great extent, ignore the furnishing of the people with the smaller comforts, conveniences and inxuries of life, upon which so much of our daily handless depends. of our daily happiness depends.

THE SPEAKERSHIP-A NEW ENG-LAND VIEW.

The following, from the Boston Journal, on the subject of the Speakership, should be read in connection with the remembrance that public feeling in New England is naturally, as a rule, strongly favorable to Mr. Reed, and that the Journal is one of the leading exponents of New England Republican opinion. Telegraphic reports from Washington report the contest as being, so far, very close between Reed being, so far, very close between Reed and McKinley:

The prevailing hopefulness among the western candidates is an excellent sign for Mr. Reed. This may sound paradoxical, but it is true, for the only thing that Mr. Reed has to dread is a combination of votes upon one of the western candidates. So long as each of these candidates is hopeful of his own success and tenedous of his supporters, such a combination is unlikely. Mr. Reed is undoubtedly in the lead at present, and he is the second choice of a good many members whose first vote will be given to one of the western candidates. His prospects of success are excellent. The contest is entirely free from outside interference. There is not even any respectable gooslp on which to base any talk of an "Administration" candidate. The contest is a iso entirely free from rancor. It is a good-humored and honorable contest. The Republican party is well endowed with leaders when it has so many candidates for Speaker, any one of whom would fill the office with credit and ability. There is no possible combination of circumstances which will not yield to the next Congress a well-equipped and satisfactory Speaker.

REFERRING to a recent query of ours as to what American enterprise may be expected to accomplish in this garden of the world. in view of what has of the Northwest, the Sacramento Bee The question can hardly be answered. Relatively speaking, there is no comparison nor means to compare the possibilities of Minnesota and California. If advantages of climate and natural wealth are to determine our progress over theirs, the mind will never be able to follow the contrast. California is bound to surpass all other sections. Her destiny is inevitable. The American enterprise which has accomplished se much for Minnesota will do immeasurably more for Minnesota will do immeasurably more for California, where it will find in Nature the most generous coadjutor.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 27.—[By the Associated Press.] At the Silver Convention this morning Delegate Morse of Colorado introduced the following:

"Resolved, that Senators and Representatives in Congress are hereby requested to establish a unit for colorage of silver with the South American States that shall make allver coin pass current on a par with gold in all the Americas of the western hemisphere. That they also be requested to open in all the Americas of the western nemisphere; that they also be requested to open negotiations with the Congress of all the Americas now in session for the building of a railroad from the United States through the States of South America."

After a lively discussion it was referred to the Committee on Resolutions. A number of resolutions were offered in rapid succession and all referred to the Committee on Resolutions.

Resolutions.

A paper from John Thompson, vicepresident of the Chase National Bank of New York, was then read. It was the judgment of Thompson that the movement for a more liberal use of allver in our currency supply should be gradual. First secure coluage of a maximum of four millions per month, and see the results under an augment declarge. In his deliberate judgment this augmented coinage would pave the way for the adoption of free coluage by

ment this augmented collage would pave the way for the adoption of free collage by acclamation.

The paper continued: "With the demonetization of silver began the era of contraction; not perhaps shown by the aggregate figures of outstanding currency, but by the disproportion between the increase of currency and that of the business of the country, which has increased out of all proportion to the growth of our aggregate circulating medium. Of the mass of gold in the country obtained since resumption, some $200,000,000 is kept in the Treasury, and is virtually no part of the working currency. It is only drawn out when used for foreign shipment. Our working currency consists of legal tender notes, national bank notes, sliver coin and silver certificates. The latter now do not increase as fast as national bank notes are retired. Therefore, it can be truthfully said that the stock of currency that does the work of the country is slowly but surely diminishing, while business demands upon it are constantly increasing; that there have been two influences at work tending to increase the measuring power of money in the United States, and a consequent depreciation of property. One is the general effect of the demonetization of sliver, the other the contraction of the particular kind of currency used.

"While our dollars are of sliver and sliver.

"While our dollars are of sliver and sliver certificates based upon; them, so far both these dollars and their representatives have been restricted in amount and kept on a gold basis by a policy that has favored a gold monometallic standard. The demonegold monometallic standard. The demone-tization of silver has been and is a wicked preference given to the creditor over the debtor classes over the entire population, and it is this preference that is driving our middle classes into poverty and enabling millionaires to multiply their milliona. Nothing, in my opinion, will save our peo-ple from social revolution so surely as the full remonetization of silver and giving it all the advantages we now give to gold, both in isw and the ruling of our Treasury experiment. The monogold standard is

The following resolutions, offered by Jacks of California, were received with cheers and referred under the rule:

"WHEREAS, Wall streat and the eastern boadholders are now actually at work striving to elect a Speaker for the approaching Congress whose record is entirely opposed to the silver interests;

"WHEREAS, Kepresentatives in Congress should be servants of the people;

"WHEREAS, this great convention shows the unanimity of public opinion in the Western and Southern States and Territories in favor of more colinace of silver; therefore, "Resolved, that the western and southern Representatives in Cougress be requested to support some friend of silver for the Speakership of the present House of Representatives and that their failure to do so will be a betrayal of the people, warranting their political death." The chairman then announced that the convention would be addressed by Congress-man R. P. Bland of Missouri. Bland was received with a storm of applause. He ad-dressed the convention at some length.

BLAND'S ADDR In the course of his speech Bland said: "The free coinage of eilver will settle the silver question and greatly relieve the poor. silver question and greatly relieve the poor. The only question with metalists in our country is weether we should at once repeal our demonetization laws or wait for the concurrence of other powers, including Great Britain. It is a significant fact that you will scarcely find a man in public life today who will assume the responsibility of contending for the single gold standard. I am in favor of paddling our own cance in this as well as in all other subjects. If we have enacted bad laws, let us repeal them. Especially should we repeal a law that has been so universally infurious as the demonetization act of 1873. No matter whether the interested few who engineered this legislation meant well or not, it was practically a fraud upon Congress and the American people."

legislation meant well or not, it was practically a fraud upon Congress and the American people."

Bland spoke at some length of the business depression and financial panic following the legislation of 1873, and added: "It is not claimed that the demonetization of silver alone caused this panic. There were other contractions of the currency in progress, but the prob-bilities are that had we left the mints open to the free coinage of silver there would have been a heavy increase in the coinage of silver dollars to counteract the effect of the paper contraction. On the continent to the sauth of us and to the west in Asia there are $50,000,000 of people who use only silver as money. They are the bost customers for manufactures and the chief source of foreign trade. We ought to have this trade, and proper legislation on the silver question will greatly aid us in securing it. By the free coinage of silver and gold New York, and not London or Paris, would be the money center for exchanges of the world."

After listening to a paper on the "Silver Question" from Thomas Jordan, editor of the New York Mining Record, the convention took a recess till 2:30 pm.

The convention reassembled at 2:30, and listened to papers from Judge Morris of Richmond and Congressman Synmes of Colorado. Symmes referred to an article by John Jay Knox in which Knox took a position adverse to the sentiments of the convention, and said: "And this is the manywho advised Congress to demonetize silver from 1870 to 1873, because, as he argued, an American silver dollar exceeds by 3 per cent, the standard of gold, and will not circulate but will be exported for recolarse."

SENATOR STEWART'S OFF-HAND TALK. Congressman Symmes was followed by senator Stewart of Nevada, whose remarks could be manufactured. Now, I say as long temporary as long temporary as money, could be manufactured. Now, I say as long temporary as long temporary as long temporary as long temporary as money while gold was first used as an ornament, and later as money. For 3000 years or more these have been the metals out of which money could be manufactured. Now, I say as long temporary as long temp

Powerty, inability pay debts, inability to support a family, make men cowagds. The creation of great middle classes of England was broshout by the discovery of gold in Me and South America. Free sliver in Euwas the cause of people having some me and becoming independent. The far and becoming independent. The far and South America. Free siver in Europe was the cause of people having some money and becoming independent. The farmers of our country today, in consequence of the machinations of the money kings and gold mone-metallists, are losing the independence of character, for which they have been moted. Their mortgages are making them cowards. I will not stop to explain how this sliver-demonetization fraud was committed. There was no discussion in the Senate; not a word, not a suggestion in the Senate; not a word, not a suggestion in the Senate that the dollar was to be omitted. There is nothing in the record of the Senate to show how that dollar got our. The conferences of the committee do not show it, but we find the fact to be that sliver was omitted, and I call upon the people to explain how it occurred. There was $3,500,000,000 of national debt, that we know of, and it is estimated that there is at least three times as much of other debt, country, municipal, corporation, etc., making $100,000,000 in all. Two hundred millions of gold and silver was being manufactured a month. The people had a right to rely on that. Now this scheme has cut off one-half of that supply, and the debtor is bound by that contract."

Senator Stewart closed by urging that there be a plain demand upon Congress to remonetize sliver. No dailying, no componise, but a straight demand. "Meet the creditor," he said, "face to face, for if you must yield him your property you might as well do it now as in the future."

Two BEPORTS.

The report of the Committee on Resolutions was read, recommending a memorial to Congress demanding the passage of laws fixing the coinage value of gold at 25 8-10 grains and silver at 412½ grains of standard firmness; the purchase of at least $4,000,000 worth of silver buildon each month, and the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold on full and equal privileges under the coinage laws.

After some discussion these resolutions were recommitted for correction.

"Calamity" Weller of Iowa dissented from the views of other members of the committee and presented a minority report, in which he asked an indorsement of the act of Congress of 1834 by which 6 per cent. of material was taken out of the gold dollar coin, also the indorsement of the legislation which made the silver dollar of 385 8-10 grains, nine-tenths fine, the equivalent of the 482% grains, nine-tenths fine, the equivalent of the 482% grains, nine-tenths fine, dollar before the law, and in all courts of record in limits a payment of the supreme Court that the material of which money is composed has nothing whatever to do with the properties imparted by Congress, and will become a demonstration of a purpose to finally reach a financial system, which shall be as purely national as the Constitution, and also a wise and patriotic element in the final solution. After reading a telegram from the president of the Industrial League at Washington, urging unlimited coinage of silver, the convention adjourned until tomorrow.

The trial of Judge Eaton yesterday before Justice Van Doron was an interesting incident, and engrossed the attention of the town during the foremore. The Judge defended himself, aided by Mr. Rose; but the result, unfortunately for the Judge, was a foregone conclusion, the jury bringing in a verdict against him. Republic may be ungrateful, but towns seem to be more so. The next move will be to get up a subscription to refund the Judge the amount. enumerated for Pasadena is its topographical position, which is being selected above all other places by the home-seeker. Although it has many rivals it is unequaled in the attractions that Nature has bestowed upon it. We are clearly destined to be a great city of homes, and our duty lies in embellishing and making them attractive. In this connection our citizens should not overlook or underestimate the advantages to be derived by competitive rapid-transit railroads, connecting us with Los Angeles and other points. The San Gabriel Valley Rapid-transit road is at our very gates, demanding admittance. We can shorten the shadows of the 'dull times,' so-called, by coöperating with this road. A public meeting of our citizens should be called at an early date to urge and impress the importance and value or this road to Pasadena.

"We certainly entertain no prejudice when our own interests and prosperity are at stake. If the third railroad to Pasadena is solicitous of entering our city, and willing to compete for business, it exhibits additional and renewed confidence in our future, that is seemingly lacking in ourselves. Let us have the San Gabriel Valley Rapid Transit Railroad, and reat not until it is steaming into the very center of our town. We want all the railroads that can be obtained, and, as we cultivate our natural advantages, decultivate our natural advantages, de-veloping all the resources at hand, then abundant prosperity will return and abide with us."

The hop at the Raymond on Tuesday evening, though an informal affair, was a very pleasant one, but the party this evening will long be remembered as one of the events of the season. The attendance will probably be quite large, as a great many guests are expected from outside the house.

THANKSGIVING DAY.

Praise and Thanksgiving—Feasts and Frolio—Music and Dancing.
In accordance with an old-time-honored custom, this day has been set apart as one of Thanksgiving and praise to the Almighty God, and although Pasadena will observe the more sober portion of the day's exercises, a good portion of it will be given up to pleasure and merry making.

At 11 e'clock there will be a union service in the First Congregational Church, at the corner of Pasadena avenue and California street. The sermon will be preached by Dr. William Ormiston of the First Presbyterian Church.

ism Ormiston of the First Presbyterian Church.

The music will be furnished by a combination of choirs, and will be very fine. Doubtless the attendance will be very large at this service.

At the same hour there will be Thanksgiving service in All Saints Church, on North Euclid avenue. The address will be made by the rector, Mr. G. A. Ottmann. Fine music has been prepared for the occasion, and all are invited.

In the afternoon the foot-ball teams will tussle, kick and cramble in the field at Sportsman's Fark for mastery over the foot-ball. The game will be an interesting one and will, no doubt, draw a large crowd. The boys will be dressed in their now soits, and things will be "done up" in the style.

Pope Gregory III. died November 28, 741. He was elected to succeed Gregory II. in 731. Gregory was a native of Syria, and his pontificate is one of the most important in the history of papacy. During Gregory's reiga, Rome was oppressed by the Lombards who threatened to put an end to all popes. In his extremity, Gregory sought the aid of the great Charles Martel who, under the title of Mayor of the palace, exercised the authority of King of France. Charles hastened to rescue Gregory from his difficulties, overthrew the Lombards and bestowed the territory in the vicinity of Rome, on the popes. This was laid the foundation of the temporal sovereignty of the Roman pontiffs which subsisted for more than eleven centuries, and was not set aside until the entry of the Italian troops into Home nineteen years ago.

The celebrated French philosophe

And celebrated French philosopher, Victor Cousin, was the son of a clockmaker and born in Paris November 28, 1792. He became professor of philosophy at Sorbonne in 1815, but was removed for his liberal principles in 1821. Five years later he published an edition of Descartes in 11 volumes, and an original and important work entitled "Philosophic Fragments." Suspected of liberalism, he was imprisoned for six months in Berlin. In 1828 he was reappointed professor of philosophy at the Sorbonne, in which position he gained immense popularity. After the revolution of 1830 he resigned his professorship, was appointed Council of Public Instruction, and in the same year was elected to the French Academy in place of Fourier. Two years later he was created a Peer of France, and was, in 1840, for about eight months, Minister of Public Instruction in the Cabinet of M. Thiers, As a member of the Chamber of Peers, he evinced oratorical powers of a high order. His system of philosophy is said to have consisted of a union of idealism and sensualism. He was the author of numerous philosophical works. He died in January, 1867.

It is thirty years today since the death of Washington Inving was born April 3, 1783, and at the age of 21 visited taly on a tour of health and pleasure. Soon after his return he wrote a comic history of New York, purporting to be the work of a venerable Dutchman, Dietrich Knickerbocker. The work so pleased Sir Walter Scott that when the author visited him, in 1820, he wrote to thank Campbell, who had given Irving an introduction to Sir Walter, "for one of the best and pleasantest acquaintances he had met in many a day." Nor did Scott confine himself to compliments, but introduced Irving to Murray, the publisher, who gave him £200 for the copyright of "The Sketch Book," but afterward increased the sum to £400. Irving wrote "Bracebridge Hall" in Paris, and "The Tale of a Traveler" in Dresden, but found his richest mine in Spain, where he spent three months in the Palace of the Alhambra, ransacking its libr Passes given to parties building (subject to approval of the directors) along the line of its road.

where he lived with his brother and nieces, and wrote "Astoria," "Capt. I o neville," "Goldsmith," "Mahome.," and his last work, the life of his great namesake, "Washington." He was never married. In his youth he loved one who died of consumption and he was fathful to her memory.

The Rev. Langton Freeman, a Warwickshire (England) rector, who was baptized November 29, 1710, is remembered for a singular eccentricity. In his will he directed that his body should remain on his bed four or five days after his decease, and then be carried or laid in the same bed decently and privately in the summerhouse in the garden belonging to his dwelling-house, and be laid in the same bed there, with all the appurtenances thereto belonging; and that he be wrapped in a strong, double-winding sheet, and in all respects to be buried as near as may be after the manner of the Savior's burial as described in the Holy Scriptures. The door and windows of the summer-house were to be locked up and bolted, and the building planted around with evergreen plants, and fenced off with iron or oak pales and painted of a dark blue color. To keep the summer-house, the pales and the evergreens in decent blue color. To keep the summer-house, the pales and the evergreens in decent repair, he bequeathed to his nephew, Thomas Freeman, the manor of Whilton, etc. Until about 1850, the summer-house was surrounded with evergreens; but now the palings are gone, the trees cut down, and the building itself looks like a ruined hovel. Some 25 years ago the building was entered and its tenant seemed to be a dried-up skinny figure, of the consistence of a feather, with one arm laid across the chest and the other hanging down the body which, though never embalmed, seemed to have remained perfectly incorruptible. blue color. A New Yorker says "the tower for the World's Fair should appropriately be 1492 feet tall, with a liberty-pole 400 feet above that, making it 1892." But such an undertaking would cost like 60, which would make it 1952, and that would be 2 much.—[Norristown Herald.

HAVE YOU HEARD IT? There is an article going the rounds of the press entitled "The Deepest Hole in the World." It is said to be about 6000 feet deep, and is located somewhere in Germany. There is a deeper hole than that right here in the United States, and by listening attentively the long, low, despairing wail of the New York World's Fair Committee may be heard issuing from its mysterious depths.—[American Commercial Traveller.
